THE 2005 TRAVELING WESTERN RV BIENNIAL ART SHOW

521 First Street, Davis, California, March 5, 1-10 pm

Davis, CA -- The Hollowell Global-Mobile Institute For The Visual Arts™
-- in conjunction with The John Natsoulas Center for the Arts, Western Biennial of Art -- presents: THE 2005 TRAVELING WESTERN RV BIENNIAL ART SHOW.

HIGHLIGHTING MAVERICK ARTISTS and their presence in contemporary American art, at a moment of dynamic change in our nations artistic crossroads, The 2005 TRAVELING WESTERN RV BIENNIAL ART SHOW will explore a number of related and completely unrelated artistic and aesthetic artworks in an unprecedented gathering of living and deceased artists in a luxurious, traveling mobile home. Appearing only on March 5th, The 2005 TRAVELING WESTERN RV BIENNIAL ART SHOW is being organized by a dude with four highly motivated, but unpaid, art curators: Richard Reisman, Esq., independent curator, Green Valley Ranch, CA; Carl Fiacco, Bed and Breakfast manager, Oswego, NY; Tim Brown, gallery impresario (telephonebooth), Kansas City, MO; and Leo, a highly acclaimed four legged (Jack Russell / Chihuahua) empathic art consultant from La Jolla, CA. The exhibition will present works by about 35 artists and collaborative groups, and will only be on view March 5th from 1:00 – 10:00 pm, opening day of the prestigious Western Biennial of Art held at The John Natsoulas Center for the Arts, which continues thru to March 27, 2005. The RV exhibition will also include a catalogue and several site-specific outdoor works, presented in collaboration with the traveling art show. This exhibition marks the shows only venue.
