WTF! FAC Announces Truce with Artist LG Williams?

NEW YORK CITY (AP) — In a surprise turn of events this week, Feminist Art Critics declared what just may be a truce with renowned exiled Los Angeles artist LG Williams.

Ending days of frustration, feminists screaming insults, pseudo-death threats, spam, and just plain typical hillbilly behavior, the Feminist Art Critics have concluded that “being nice can be nice.”

Interviews with FAC Co-Chair “Mama Mia” Maria Rio Rancho revealed the organization’s recent turn of enlightened events. “Just as you should never blame a cat for being a cat or Watteau for covertly exploring the outlandish and provocative side of human sexuality, you can’t blame Williams for being himself,” she said. “Moreover, if art critics can’t see the beauty in LG’s art and life, I now publicly say they need to look again.”

The decision seems to have brought agreement within the group. As an unknown source was overheard saying after the news was released, “True, nice is boring; however, living up to one’s name and pedigree is vital. Besides, LG understands that conflict, anger, and emotion are essential for consciousness and creativity (ask Lawrence Weiner, too). See it for what it is. But all in all, we just have to appreciate that the artist formerly known as ‘The Big A-Hole’ steps outside his box into ours, literally and figuratively. Feminist Art Critics all over the world need to be willing to enjoy the mighty white ride.”

Talks will most likely continue between the groups on hot nights in the near future.
