LG Williams Presents Artworks During Desert X 2019

LG Williams and The Estate of LG Williams™ is participating during this year's Desert X (Feb 9–Apr 21, 2019)

COACHELLA VALLEY, CA — American artist LG Williams and The Estate of LG Williams™ (b. 1969, Shell Knob, MO) is presenting a site-specific project, For Sale: One Billion Three Hundred and Fifty Million Dollars — or 3 X Salvator Mundi (2012/19), inspired by the perpetually changing real estate landscape in a state of constant flux—purchases, sales, foreclosures, bailouts, and reinvention.

For Sale: One Billion Three Hundred and Fifty Million Dollars — or 3 X Salvator Mundi meditates on the rapidly changing face of money, framed within a relic of our real estate landscape. This new era is increasingly uber-pricey and art-less, where human connection is evaporating and quickly being replaced by completely digital and random amounts of pseudo-human connections—i.e., money. But, please, let's not forget: the vestiges of the Cold War in our contemporary context, employing slogans from anywhere, where normally there would be advertisements, and cartographies of military expansion in the California desert—and the like.
