MILAN — The Estate Of LG Williams is pleased to announce that LG WILLIAMS/ESTATE OF LG WILLIAMS, who just ended an Artforum™ reviewed show at Super Window Project in Kyoto, has been invited to participate in THE INTERNET PAVILION FOR LA BIENNALE DI VENEZIA 2011 (THE VENICE BIENNIAL 2011). The exhibition will run from June 2 to November 27 in Venice, Italy.

"It's an honor to be invited to The Internet Pavilion for La Biennale Di Venezia 2011, and to be amongst the few artist chosen for this prestigious event" said LG Williams, spokesman for the Estate Of LG Williams. "I am grateful to Padiglione Internet BYOB Venezia and Gloria Maria Cappelletti in particular for recognizing my artistic accomplishments and championing them in this most acclaimed international art event."

The Venice Biennale (Italian: Biennale di Venezia; also called in English the "Venice Biennial") is considered the world's most important contemporary art exhibition. The first Biennale was held in 1895; since then the event has become more and more international. Currently, countries across the globe are represented through their national pavilions. The Biennale, as the name suggests, takes place once every two years (in odd years).

This year, THE INTERNET PAVILION, initiated by Miltos Manetas, will present BYOB an exhibition series created by Rafaël Rozendaal. Exhibition curators include: Margherita Balzerani, Gloria Maria Cappelletti, Caroline Corbetta, Marina Fokidis, Elena Giulia Rossi, Valentina Tanni, Mara Sartore, Yvonne Force Villareal, Doreen Reemen, Jan Aman, Manuel Frara, David Quiles Guilló, Miltos Manetas, Lev Manovich, Angelo Plessas, Rafaël Rozendaal, Domenico Quaranta, Francesco Urbano and Francesco Ragazzi.

The pavilion will be located at the Accademia Di Belle Arti New Media Department, on the Island of San Servolo, 10-minute boat ride from Piazza San Marco.
